RALSTON THREATENING DEADLOCK

WHITE HOUSE IN MOURNING TODAY FOR CHIEF'S SON

Simple Funeral at White House Before Body is Taken To Burial Place

DIED LAST NIGHT

Words of Sympathy Heard From Nation by Grieved Parents of Lad

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Tentative plans for the funeral of Calvin Coolidge, Jr., were understood to include a simple service at the White House at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, the body then to be taken to Northampton, Massachusetts, the Coolidge home, where another service will be held with burial at Plymouth, Vermont, where the president was born.

The lad died last night at Walter Reed army hospital after five days illness from blood poisoning.

At the White House F. W. Stearns, friend of the Coolidge family who has been with them constantly, said the president and Mrs. Coolidge are bearing up well under their grief.

Those who watched the struggle of the 16-year-old lad against the terrific violence of the disease which swept through his system were agreed that only the fortitude and will unusual to any age had kept him alive so long. It was on Saturday that the venomous nature of the infection was definitely disclosed. The trivial abrasion that resulted from the blister on Monday was so little a thing that he appeared that night with his father at a public budget meeting of government officials where he jested with his brother.

On Wednesday, however, the onslaught of the infection was apparent.

Removed to Hospital Saturday

On Saturday he was removed to the Walter Reed hospital on an operation which it was hoped might reduce the bacteria which were building in tissues of the boy's leg. For the reception of the lad and also to provide quarters for his parents who wished to remain constantly near him, the entire upper wing of the hospital was cleared. The operation was performed with an anesthetic and was successful in that it established a drain for the accumulating septic matter. Although he showed a slight improvement after it, he was said by his physicians to have rallied in spite of his intense pain although the disease made rapid progress. Although his case appeared hopeless, his determination to live and his refusal to yield to pain and intense suffering and failing heart marked the course of his struggle.

Collapse Came Yesterday

It was shortly after 6 p. m. yesterday that the collapse came and he lapsed out of consciousness. At that time a military guard had been placed around his quarters and only meager news was brought from the bedside by E. T. Clark, the president's personal secretary. Oxygen and other restoratives were used to hold the glow of the spark of life in his weary frame, but it continued to burn lower and lower. At 8 o'clock it was announced that he was dying but it was not until two and one-half hours later that the physicians pronounced him dead.

The boy's courage met the test many times when it was required for the operation and for blood tests when hypodermic instruments were used. It was only necessary to tell him what was wanted and where it would hurt and he would submit without complaint or protest.

Messages of sympathy were received by President and Mrs. Coolidge today from persons of all lands and all walks of life. The tragic death of their son had touched the hearts not only of their friends but many others who showed their sympathy.

Calvin Coolidge, Jr., according to White House attaches, was the first son of a president to die while holding that office since Tad Lincoln died in his father's arms in the White House near the close of the civil war.

Six sailors from the presidential yacht Mayflower aboard which Calvin Coolidge, Jr., had taken many trips with his father, and six marines were posted about his casket today in the White House as a guard of honor.

The flag on the White House was once more flown at half-mast. A white crepe was fastened to the door in token of mourning and a great profusion of flowers was banked in the room where the body lay.

SANER FAVORING CONSTITUTION USE

Dallas President of Bar Association Argues for Constitution

(By the Associated Press)

PHILADELPHIA, July 8.—A plea for the continuation of the constitution as it is, and a denunciation of blocs, cliques, and groups that would lessen its efficacy by a plurality of amendments or by facilitating the method of amendment, was made here today by Robert E. Lee Saner, of Dallas, president of the American Bar Association in his annual address before the association which began its annual convention this morning.

The address recounted the history of the foundation of the American republic, the exigencies that controlled the type of government evolved, gave a short chronological account of the trials and tribulations that have assailed it, and made several suggestions for the conduct for the members of the association while in their own homes that would tend to heighten the respect for the constitution and the American government.

The speaker made a plea for the maintenance of the balance of power between the three major divisions of the government, and between the national and state government. "So long as the balance between the centrifugal force, which tends to draw the states into the nation, and to destroy them, and the centrifugal force, which tends to throw the states out of the nation is maintained, our government will endure," he declared.

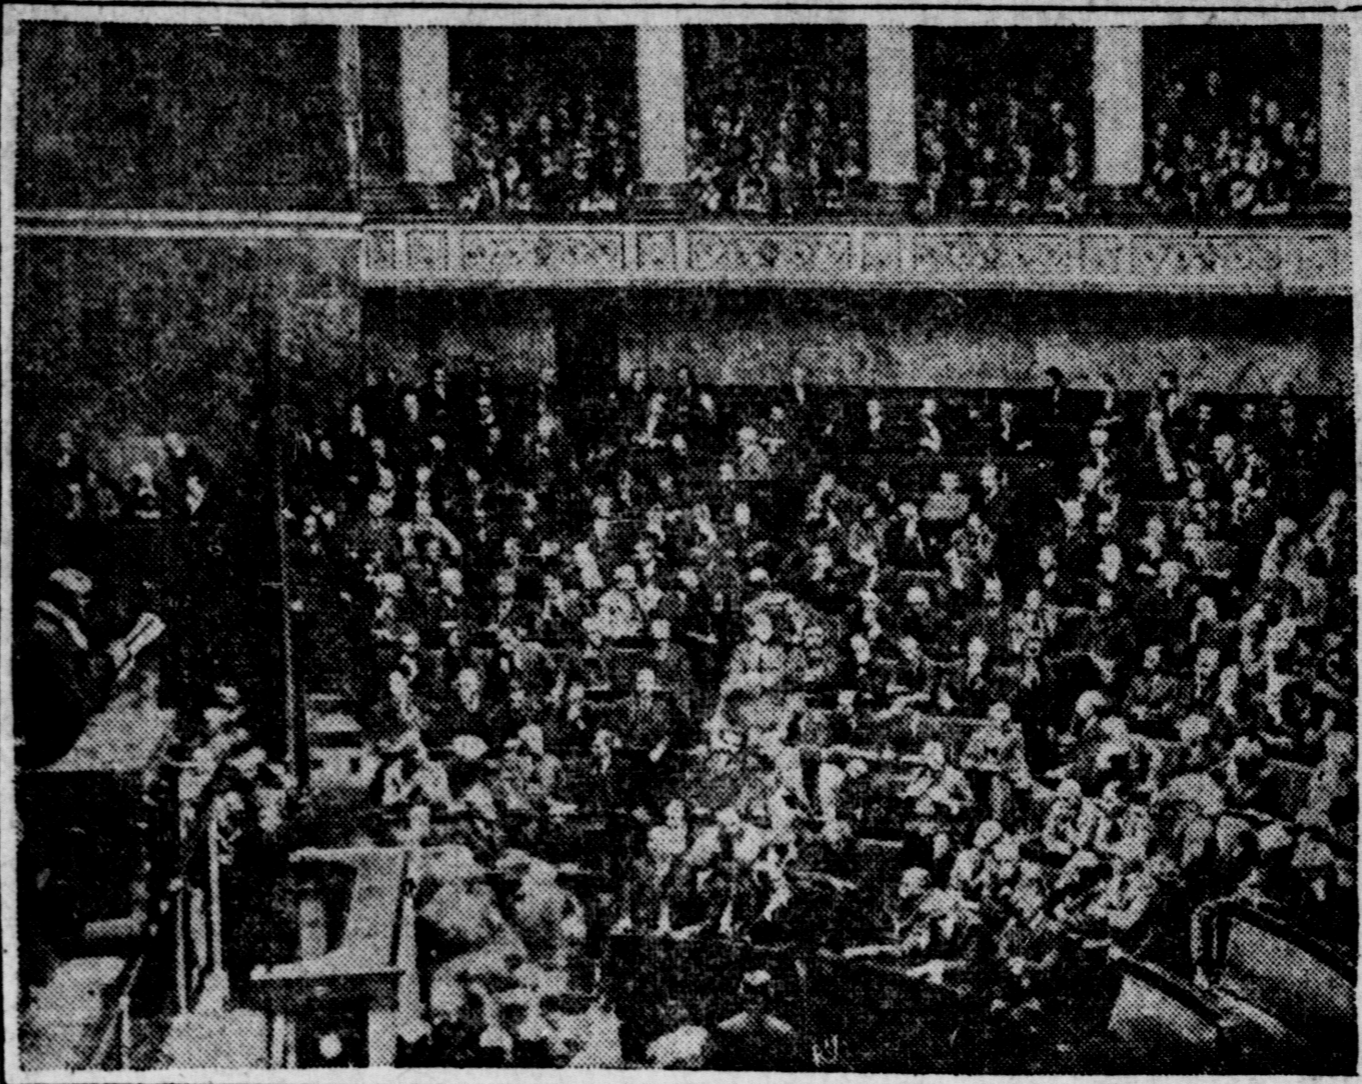

"But when that balance is destroyed and the states are consumed by the nation or, on the other hand, the states become all-powerful and free themselves from the restraints imposed by our national government under the constitution, then the days of our prosperity and happiness are ended, and we are doomed to the cataclysmic annihilation which all governments, not Anglo-Saxon, have had to suffer."

In referring to amendments to the federal constitution, Mr. Saner said, "First three amendments had been adopted between 1804 and 1913, or one to every 36 years, and that four had been adopted since 1913, or one to less than over three years. 'There are now pending in Congress nearly one hundred proposals to amend the constitution, practically all of them conceived, fostered and urged by highly organized bureaus or associations,' he declared. 'Virtually all of them strike at the fundamental principles of our government, and many of them are fostered by the selfish interests of minority factions for purely selfish purposes. The insistent demand of this paternalistic movement is for creating new bureaus and departments and offices, vastly increasing the number of federal employees, with a relative increase in the cost of government.'"

A comparison of the legislative bodies was drawn with Caligula, of ancient Rome, who posted his laws on pillars so high that the people could not read. "Congress and the various states daily grind out laws and go to the other extreme by enacting them in bulky volumes. The 59th congress passed 6,750 laws, and in 1915 the states adopted 15,338 laws, not to speak of municipal enactments and rulings of the various bureaus, commissions and departments. And yet the citizen is presumed to know all the law."

"If the tendencies of the times are not checked," Mr. Saner continued, "if a halt is not called, the congress would, if unrestrained by the supreme court, speedily wipe out state lines and our government Turn to Page 3, No. 2

PROFESSIONAL TO INSTRUCT GOLFERS

Services of Professional Now Available to Those Wanting to Learn Game

The members of the Ada Golf and Country club will now be able to find out why they have not been able to turn in better cards in their rounds at the ancient and honorable pastime of the canny Scots. The club has secured the services of Mr. W. H. Clark, a professional golfer and golf instructor who will instruct members of the club in the art of hitting them where they look. Mr. Clark is already here and is giving his first lessons today.

In order to stimulate interest in golf, the directors in a meeting this morning voted to extend the privileges of the course for the balance of the month of July to every one desiring to learn the game. Those who are not members of the club, but who would like to learn the game, will thus be afforded the opportunity of getting started under a competent instructor.

Mr. Clark comes to Ada from the Holdenville Club where he has been instructor for the past three months. He has also held a similar position with the country club at McAlester and at McKinney, Texas. He holds membership in the Oklahoma Golf Professional's Association and received his training under Guy Crooks, professional with the Lake-side Golf and Country club at Oklahoma City.

No reason was assigned for the blaze.

SEQUOYAH TEACHER IS SHOT BY AUTO THIEVES

(By the Associated Press)

TULSA, July 8.—L. A. Banes, 44, principal of the Sequoyah school, was shot and killed from ambush at his home on the Broken Arrow road early today. It is believed that motor car thieves who were attempting to steal his automobile, did the shooting.

Banes heard his dog barking about 2 o'clock this morning and rose to investigate, his wife said. She heard him go to the garage, close and lock the door and start back towards the house. The next thing she heard was his scream.

Immediately after the scream Mrs. Banes heard a car starting away with her husband's assailants in it. She did not see their car nor hear the shots.

Banes was hurried to a hospital but died soon afterwards.

DEMO CONVENTION BOWS IN SORROW

Vote of Sympathy Given to President and Wife in Death of Son

(By the Associated Press)

NEW YORK, July 8.—The Democratic national convention paused in its factional fighting today to pay its respects to President and Mrs. Coolidge in their hour of sorrow.

When the session began Stephen Wise offered the following resolution on behalf of Franklin D. Roosevelt, chairman of the New York delegation.

"This convention of the Democratic party gathered this morning in the shadow of grief that has come to the home of the chief magistrate of our nation. We bow our heads in sympathy and reverence for the president and his family as they pass through the valley of the shadow of death.

"We pray that divine comfort and healing be vouchsafed to the parents. May the father and mother of the lovable youth who has been called from life to life find solace and strength in the loving sympathy of all the American people.

"In token of its sympathy, this convention bows its head with loyal and affectionate regard for the president and the mother of Calvin Coolidge, Jr."

The resolution was adopted by a rising vote and a copy sent to the president.

Weed Eradication Campaign Boomed By Mayor Jones

Continuation of the campaign to rid the city of unsightly weeds was announced today by Mayor Jones in an appeal to property owners to assist in beautification of the city through a program of cleanliness.

Mayor Jones stated that the city had razed the weeds on streets and city property and the only obstacles left may be set aside by a united effort on the part of the property owners of the city in cleaning up their own property.

Civic organizations have agreed to assist in the program and will probably play a part in the general cleanup.

CONVENTION ADJOURNS FOR SIX HOUR RECESS TO SECURE RELIEF FROM PROLONGED DEMO SESSION

McAdoo Slowly Sinking From Limelight; Smith Forces Holding on and Ralston Showing Strength

(By the Associated Press)

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, July 8.—After another day of futile balloting running the total to 93, the Democratic national convention adjourned for a six hour recess during which conferences were planned in the hope of finding some way out of the whirlpool. McAdoo leaders continued desperately to stem the tide that apparently had set in against him. Gov. Smith's forces held fast and the much discussed and long looked for attempt to boom Senator Ralston was actually developed on the floor. He finally reached third place in the balloting, his vote reaching a total of 196 1-4.

McAdoo went steadily down reaching the low of 310, the lowest point the McAdoo fortunes have touched since the convention began balloting. The vote recovered a bit, however, on the last ballot and stood at 314 when the convention adjourned. Meanwhile the Smith vote stood at 355 1/2, within 15 of its highest mark of the balloting.

HOST OF OKLAHOMA AUXILIARY YOUNG

Task of Entertaining War Mothers Falls on Young Unit

The task of entertaining the war mothers, wives and sisters of ex-service men of Oklahoma who will come to attend the annual state meeting of the Legion Auxiliary will fall on the shoulders of an organization that has been in existence for a little more than a year.

The Ada Legion Auxiliary is practically an infant, having just recovered from the initial steps of organization, which was launched through the officials of the post during the past administration of Norman Howard post of Ada.

While the silent ranks of war heroes of Ada were just as anxious to function with the organization in which their sons, husbands, fathers or brothers were affiliated as any part of the state the initial move was not conceived until last year, when legion officers suggested that a unit be established in connection with the functions of the Ada post.

Following the receipt of the charter here and the listing of a number of members from the ranks of eligibles, the organization has increased remarkably until today it feels assured that the task of receiving the state members here is not too great for their efforts.

The membership of the Ada Auxiliary has increased miraculously during the past year and most of the eligible women in Ada are now affiliated with the organizations.

With Mrs. Sam A. McKeel, wife of a member of the local post, as president the organization has commanded conspicuous attention from the whole of Ada as well as the local legion post.

SHATTERED NEWS SERVICE CLOGS BRAZIL UPRISING

(By the Associated Press)

Buenos Aires, July 8.—News reaching here concerning the insurrection in Sao Paulo, continues to be vague and conflicting due partly to the imposition of a censorship but there is little doubt that the movement is of considerable consequence.

An unconfirmed report from a correspondent of La Nacion says it is estimated that Sao Paulo state troops with some federal forces, the whole totaling 13,000 men, are marching towards Rio Janeiro.

OKLAHOMA'S SYMPATHY TOLD BY ACTING GOVERNOR ANGLIN

(By the Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 8.—Acting Governor Tom Anglin expressed the sympathy of Oklahoma for the president and Mrs. Coolidge in the loss of their son in a telegram sent to the chief executive today. The message read: "Every citizen of Oklahoma joins me in expressing the deepest sympathy at the loss of your beloved son."

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, July 8.—The beginning of a slide to Ralston of Indiana shook up the long deadlock today in the Democratic national convention. In succession the Indiana senator picked up the solid votes of Oklahoma, Missouri, Nevada and Kansas besides several smaller groups, raising his total to a point approaching that of the two leaders.

Meantime the McAdoo strength had been pounded to a new low level and Smith was about holding his own.

There were many signs that despite the desperate efforts of the McAdoo column was tottering and might fall in total collapse. How many of McAdoo's supporters might eventually go to Ralston, however, was problematical. Some of them were taking up Homer Cummings of Connecticut and other favorites.

The McAdoo floor leaders were hastily summoned for a conference with the candidate and two close advisers at the listening post quarters across the street from the convention hall. Some of his warmest supporters urging McAdoo to formally withdraw and seek a compromise that would give him a say in the selection of a compromise candidate.

No definite sign of Stampedee. So far there has been no definite signs of a stampede, but the evident breaking up of the situation has started a new group of rumors and there has been an over increasing activity on the convention floor on behalf of those who have been waiting hopeful for the hour of dissolution to come.

Dropping to his lowest point since the voting began a week ago today, McAdoo got only 315 votes on the opening ballot today and his strength fluctuated about that figure on the succeeding roll calls. Some of the wisecracks believed the final definite collapse of the McAdoo strength was imminent. Meantime, Smith forces, on the other hand, were holding barely steady.

In the hope that the end of the long deadlock might come before the end of the day efforts were being made to bring new dark horses and quicken up those who have been going through the weary preliminary steps for nearly 100 ballots. An attempt was being made to swing Oregon and Idaho from the McAdoo column to Homer Cummings of Connecticut and throw the strength of Illinois behind John W. Davis.

The leaders stood as follows on the ninety-second ballot: Smith 355 1-2, McAdoo 310, Ralston 196 3-4, Davis 59 1-2. Smith remained unchanged, McAdoo lost 8, Ralston gained 9 1-4 and Davis gained 3.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, July 8.—In a broken field and amid many uncertainties the Democratic national convention tried once more today to settle upon a nominee for the presidency.

After both Smith and McAdoo fell below the total necessary to exercise the veto, the favorite son group took on renewed hope and kept up its hammering attack but with no clear result.

As the first roll call of the day went forward it became apparent that the over night discussions of the party chiefs had had no immediate material effect on the situation.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THERE IS NO MAN that hath power over the spirit to retain the spirit; neither hath he power in the day of death: and there is no discharge in that war.—Ecclesiastes 8:8.

OLD TIME PEP.

R. W. Simpson is quoted as saying that Ada needs a leader like some of those in the past, who will drive the citizens of the town to greater things.

There can be no doubt that the city needs some of its old time pep. While poor cotton crops and the deflation period have combined to give one the blues, there is no need to grumble. The city has been growing all along in spite of the conditions. Instead of worrying about the conditions, we should rejoice that we are so much better off than those in some of the Oklahoma towns.

While we agree with Mr. Simpson that the old time pep is needed and that a leader would do much good, at the same time would it not be better for all of us to throw our strength together and like one great giant build a city in a short time? "In union there is strength," is a truism. It built Oklahoma City with no natural advantages except being the center of the state. It built Waterloo, Iowa, with almost no natural advantages. It will put 50,000 people in Ada before some of us turn up our toes.

The trouble with Ada is that some of those who should help the city hinder it. Many who have property here and ought to be giving of their money and time to the development of the city, by their attitude towards the business, industrial and laboring men are retarding. This, however, will probably change when better times come, and the united spirit of the past will prevail again.

A larger Ada does not simply mean more money for the business and professional men and women. It means a better market for the farmers who grow food and feed stuffs. It means more jobs for the man who wants to come in from the farms. It means more and better jobs for the woman who must make a living for herself and her children. It means a better life for all of us, better in that the modern things of life may be had in more abundance.

The News believes Secretary Treadwell is a good man and that he will help put the Chamber of Commerce program over in a big way. But Treadwell cannot do it all. Even if he develops as one of the leaders of old, he cannot do the things needed without the cooperation of all the citizens.

If you cannot be a booster, then for your own sake do not be a knocker. If you cannot boost, keep quiet and let the other fellows make the money for you.

EVERYBODY STRONG FOR AGRICULTURE.

About every candidate for office, Federal and State, Democrats or Republicans, is strong for increasing rural prosperity. With Europe thinking seriously of going back to work, thus increasing its appetite for American grown food, and also increasing its ability to pay; with everybody on this side of the waters promising to help the farmers, it looks as if those engaged in the production of food and fiber were going to have an easy time.

It is a fine thing to have the sympathy and promised help from those who will make the laws, but "getting right down to cases," rural prosperity is going to depend upon the farmers themselves in 1925 just as it has in times gone by. The farmer who plans well, executes well and is thrifty will make good if Nature gives him half a chance. The man who neglects his farm or gambles on one crop and fails is the fellow who expects the Government to make him prosperous by legislation.—Farm and Ranch.

All very true. Any man who slows up to wait for prosperity by legislation has a long wait ahead of him. No matter what the politicians promise when after office, it finally resolves itself back to the old proposition of the individual working out his own salvation. Sympathy is all right in its place but it is seldom that one can cash much of it.

To one who has witnessed all the changes in this locality since statehood there is nothing more striking than the effort the people have put forth to provide the best to be had for their children in the way of education. The one teacher school has almost disappeared and the school houses themselves are a credit to a state and county much older and much wealthier than Oklahoma and Pontotoc. In the county comfortable houses are the rule and a wonderful contrast to the shacks in Texas in which we taught a quarter of a century ago. Concrete and brick have taken the place of pine lumber and most of the schools are supplied with excellent equipment for teaching. Then, too, building teacherages is another great step forward. In our early days finding a boarding place was a hard matter and then it was sometimes a matter of going to bed at 8 p. m. or else get a hot rock for our feet if we wanted to remain up longer than that to read or study. We are glad to see the children and teachers of this generation better provided for than they were 25 years ago.

Let a NEWS WANT AD get it for you.

ONE VOTE-GETTING ARGUMENT CAN BE EMBALMED NOW

HARDY PEAR FROM SIBERIA SOUGHT

South Dakota Man Seeking Specimen in Asiatic Visits

(By the Associated Press)

BROOKINGS, S. D., Aug. 27.—N. E. Hansen, South Dakota's "agricultural explorer," whose trips to Asiatic countries in quest of fruits and plants adaptable to the climate of the northwest have paid dividends of inestimable extent to farmers of the Dakotas, is embarking upon his sixth trip to the Siberian steppes, this time in quest of a pear hardy enough to withstand the extremes of South Dakota climate.

Dr. Hansen is on his way westward to embark for Vladivostok, financed by a $20,000 appropriation of the South Dakota legislature.

Already the contributor of the Cossack alfalfa and of the hardy Hansen hybrid plum, which has been developed to maturity in Dakota's short summers, Dr. Hansen declared that the cold fastnesses of northern Siberia hold various other fruits and agricultural species which may be adapted to this climate. His five previous journeys of exploration have resulted in the introduction to the northwest of the Turkistan, Siberian and other alfalfa breeds, a host of hybridizations of orchard fruits, and several varieties of hardy roses. And when he returned from Siberia in 1913 he brought a product outside his specific province, a Siberian "fat-rumped" sheep, which has shown itself capable of surviving the rigors of South Dakota winters.

Cossack alfalfa, which is regarded as Dr. Hansen's masterpiece, now widely grown in the northwest, was developed from a spoonful of seed in 1906 to more than a thousand bushels of seed in 1916, and its culture is spreading rapidly as seed is available.

Dr. Hansen is certain his present quest for a hardy pear, adaptable to Dakota climate, will be successful. "I know it is there," he said, "it is only a question of finding good specimens of a variety known to exist, and of developing them to resist blight. South Dakota has failed to raise pears chiefly because of this blight. It kills the trees."

ONCE FAMOUS RUSSIAN ARTIST PASSES OLD AGE IN FINLAND

(By the Associated Press)

KUOKKALA, Finland.—Almost forgotten by a world that once adored him, Ilya Repine, one of the foremost Russian painters of his generation, recently celebrated his eightieth birthday. He is living in seclusion here, nursed by his daughter.

It was Repine who, back in 1869, led the revolt against the Petersburg Academy of Art, which had become thoroughly stagnant and unwilling to accept any new ideas. He organized a secession movement known as "The Wanderers," from the fact that the group of painters who seceded took their exhibition from city to city. Their slogan was life, truth, movement, and freedom in the use of color.

Repine turned exclusively to Russian national themes. Russian sagas and fairy tales often supplied the theme. He was also fond of depicting the life of the submerged masses of Russia with a realism and fearlessness which would have landed him in jail had he not been so prominent.

Where Some Rural Teachers Fail.

(Farm and Ranch)

The young man or young lady whose sympathies, pleasures and desires lie wholly within the limits of the city, have no place in the rural schools of the Southwest. No matter how well qualified he or she may be to give instruction in reading, writing and arithmetic, or in such other branches as required by the rules of governing the common school course, if they do not have a love of rural life and a heart-born desire to take an active part in it, it is an injustice to accept a school.

There is more to be taught in the rural schools than the rudiments of a common school education. It is the duty of the teacher to develop in her pupils a desire for improvement and a love of nature which will stand them in good stead as they toil in the fields or in the home in after years. Not that every pupil should be urged to stay on the farm for many may be better fitted for a professional or business career which will eventually take them to the city. They should, however, receive that training which will develop in them a deep and abiding respect for fathers and mothers who spend their time on the farm in producing the food and fiber of the Nation.

Too many rural teachers unthinkingly lead their pupils to believe that all that is desirable in life is found in cities. They talk of their city homes, of theaters and good times and show such anxiety to get away from rural surroundings that it is no wonder that the boys and girls lose interest in farm life and begin planning in their early teens to join the crowd "neath the bright lights. Rural schools need teachers who understand and appreciate rural life.

OVER-ANXIETY CAUSES LOSS TO PEACH GROWERS

(By the Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 27.—Over-anxiety to sell his produce, and failure to weigh the advice of the state marketing commission carefully, cost a Logan county peach grower $2,000, according to Ed C. Dustin, secretary of the commission.

The Logan county grower had 20,000 bushels to market, and for which he had been offered $1.15 a bushel. He communicated with the market commission and Dustin advised him not to close at that price as he would undoubtedly receive a greater price. But the grower became alarmed, sold his crop for $1.15 a bushel. Less than one hour later another commission house buyer appeared at his farm and offered $1.25 a bushel.

By delaying one hour he would have realized $2,000 more for the peaches.

U.S. Royal Cords

BALLOON ~ BALLOON-TYPE ~ HIGH PRESSURE
Built of Latex-treated Cords

TIRE building took a big step forward when the makers of United States Tires invented the Latex Process.

The added strength and wearing quality given by Latex-treated cords is something that the user of Royal Cords can tell you about from his own experience.

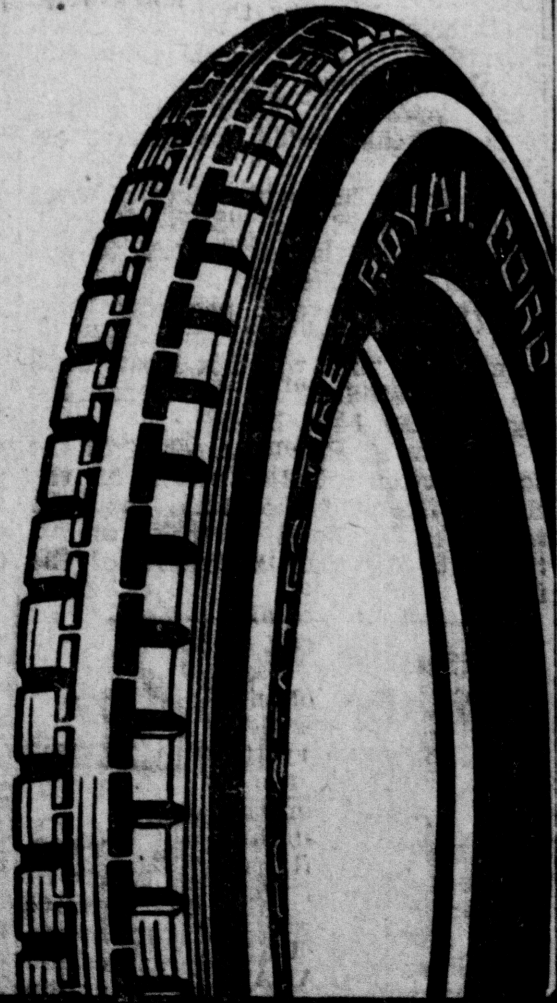

Royal Cords are the standard of value in cord tire equipment—even more certainly today than ever before.

And this holds good whether you are considering a High-Pressure Tire, a Balloon-Type Tire to fit your present wheels and rims, or a Balloon Tire for a 20 or 21 inch wheel.

HENRYETTA MAN NAMED OKMULGEE SCHOOL HEAD

(By the Associated Press)
OKMULGEE—O. E. Carter, republican, a Henryetta insurance man is the new county superintendent, being appointed by the county commissioners late yesterday to fill the unexpired term of N. O. Hopkins, who died ten days ago.

The commissioners have been waiting for several days for an opinion from the attorney general as to whether they would be compelled to appoint a man of the same political faith as Hopkins, who is a republican. Yesterday they received word from Oklahoma City that a republican should be appointed and that he should serve until next July 1.

There have been a large number of applicants, both republican and democrats, for the job, according to the commissioners, who have steadfastly refused to divulge any names.

Carter has had 17 years school experience, according to his friends. He is a graduate of the Central Normal College of Danville, Ill., and has taught school in this county for 12 years. Besides being principal of one of the Henryetta ward schools for five years he taught in the Creek Indian schools in this locality.

During the last three years he has been in the real estate and insurance business in Henryetta.

WALTER P. CHRYSLER'S TRAFFIC TALKS

FIRST TRAFFIC RULES IN 1903

Prior to 1903 there were no police rules for driving. Vehicles made their way as best they could.

In 1903 three mounted policemen were placed on Fifth Avenue, New York, to facilitate the movement of traffic.

New York's first traffic regulations, formulated by William Phelps Eno, were printed October 30, 1903.

"General Highway Traffic Regulations" with "Safety Directions for Pedestrians" which were adopted for standardization as a police code by the Council of National Defense May 8, 1919, and revised March 15, 1924, offer what are probably the best traffic regulations which have ever been formulated. They represent years of study and any city concerned with its traffic problems should study them.

WORRYING IS REAL HEALTH PROBLEM

Injurious Bad Habit That Shows Up in Health Of Victim

Worrying is a real and exceedingly injurious bad habit that is acquired and grows on the victim. Who has not seen or known dozens of women and some men who were chronic worriers and most of them react, in their physical health, to the vice of worry, Carl Puckett, health commissioner, says.

A fit of anger or a spell of worry, envy or jealousy, which are forms of worry, often cause more physical fatigue than a hard days labour for the mind has a strong influence on the health of the body.

Take it easy mentally no matter if your problem is a hard one. When the pressure gets too much for you drop the problem for a while and turn to something else.

Forget it! It's hard to do but you can learn it just as you did to read and write.

Hurry is worry. Start early enough to do what is before you without the strain and uncertainty of hurry and rush, if it is possible to do so, and you will not be fagged out and can do better work all along the line.

Don't rush home in the evening after work; take your time and you will eat a better dinner and sleep more soundly.

Above all, for the sake of physical fitness, don't brood over your troubles and problems. Don't indulge in self pity, when you feel this coming get out in the open, take a walk or get in some game that will set the blood to circulating and your mind will be that much better off to solve the problems.

OBITUARY

IN MEMORIAM

On August 23rd, 1924 at 1:30 o'clock a. m. God is his wise providence visited the home of Brother and Sister C. D. Luper, and called away from their home their little daughter, Willie May, who was born August 19th, 1922 and suffered from her illness for two weeks before death relieved her on August 23rd, 1924. Funeral services were conducted from the Francis Baptist church Saturday, August 23, at 3 p. m. by Revs. E. M. Johnson and N. O. Hornsby Interment at Cedar Grove.

Willie May was a very beautiful and intelligent child. She had many friends and acquaintances in Francis and all who knew her loved her most dearly.

While it is a great loss to her parents to lose their sweet baby, the Great God always knows what is best and their loss is Heaven's gain. The Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away, bless be the name of the Lord.

Little Willie May has gone away and left her relatives and friends to mourn her loss and we all by this express our heartfelt sympathies for the father and mother and other relatives. May your trust be placed in God, "casting your care upon Him who careth for you." You may rest assured that your little Darling is now resting in the arms of Jesus. Rest on, rest on Willie May.

For we will meet you some day. At judgment we will take your hand in the heavens and glory land. And there for ever live with you. In the heavens where love is true. —E. M. Johnson.

Tourists Park to Be Improved Under Lions Supervision

The tourists park on West Main street is to be improved materially under the direction of the Lions Club, according to plans laid by the Executive Committee at a meeting Tuesday evening.

The plans call for a fence around the park, trees planted, another furnace, tables, seats, more gravel and a general improvement. All unsightly and unsanitary houses are to be removed.

The members of the committee say they will have the co-operation and assistance of the city commissioners in the matter and hope to make this one of the most serviceable parks in the country.

RUSSELL PUZZLED OVER WITHDRAWAL

Independent Candidate Facing Difficult Problem in His Campaign

OKLAHOMA CITY—To remain in the race as an independent candidate for United States senator or to withdraw, is the question which Campbell Russell, former corporation commissioner, who reserved a place on the ticket to be used in case J. C. Walton received the democratic nomination, is trying to solve.

Russell has mailed questionnaires to 12,000 voters over the state asking their opinion in the matter and is expected to act in accordance with the expressed wishes of his friends.

Withdrawal Would Aid Pine

Russell already has opened his campaign having made a speech at Bridgeport last Friday. He is in Guthrie this week teaching a class in citizenship at the Epworth camp there. Russell, who is an admitted klansman although he denies he is running as a klan candidate, recently has made a number of speeches in klan klaverns over the state, even before Walton received the democratic nomination.

Most political leaders admit that Russell's withdrawal would aid W. B. Pine, the republican nominee materially. They point out that Russell's vote, should be retained in the race, would be anti-Walton and that with him out if the voters voted at all it would be for Pine in opposition to Walton.

Walton Opens at Geary.

Walton opened his campaign Tuesday at Geary and Pine is expected to open about September 1. George Wilson, the farmer-labor party nominee, the party supporting LaFollette in Oklahoma, already has opened his campaign, having addressed a number of farmers' picnics in the last two weeks.

While Pine has denied klan affiliation, klan leaders are active around his headquarters, particularly the anti-Jewett leaders in organization. While Jewett is said to be supporting Pine, his support is not being given publicly. Anti-Jewett leaders admit there will be a tremendous effort to bring about the grand dragon's downfall before the election and fear his remaining at the helm will defeat their efforts to put Pine over as they declare democratic klansmen will question the propriety of allowing "a republican grand dragon herd them into the republican camp."

Want Democrat as Dragon
They declared it would be much easier to swing the united klan support behind Pine with a democrat at the head of the organization than with a republican.

Kirby Fitzpatrick of Ardmore, who demanded in the democratic committee meeting three weeks ago that Walton be ordered by the committee to desist from mentioning the klan in his campaign, said Tuesday that if Walton continued his klan fight it would be in effect a bolt of the party by the candidate. He declared that the national platform did not condemn the klan and that when the candidate left the platform he bolted the party. John W. Davis' condemnation of the klan is an error in judgment while Walton's is malice, Fitzpatrick said.

Attempt to be Made To Obtain Opinion On School Issue

(By the Associated Press)

HUGO, Aug. 27.—An attempt will be made shortly after the state supreme court meets, September 9, to obtain an opinion on the constitutionality of the school levy of $15.00 per pupil, which was voted in October, 1923, according to State Senator William Holloway, who is representing the Oklahoma Educational association in the litigation. The state legislature in a resolution asked that the constitutionality of the levy be tested.

The supreme court will resume sessions, after the summer recess, September 9, and at that time an advancement of the suit, which was filed in July, will be asked. Senator Holloway is being assisted by State Senator Charles J. McPherrin in presenting the case.

Under the provision of the amendment a school fund of $15.00 per pupil will be taken from the general revenue of the state and distributed to the schools. The fund will exceed $6,000,000, Holloway said.

The amendment will bulk all school pupil expenses and will simplify the apportionment of state funds to schools, Holloway explained.

LIVERPOOL.—Higher port charges in England than those on the continent are handicapping trade severely, it was declared at a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce. One speaker said that British goods were severely handicapped in overseas markets by the difference between the freight rates at British and continental ports.

F. Russell Roberts, secretary of the Liverpool Steamship Owners' Association, said there was a difference of about three shillings a ton in port and handling charges between Liverpool and Hamburg, Antwerp, Amsterdam and Rotterdam. In the continental ports men worked longer hours at cheaper rates.

Judith of Blue Lake Ranch

By Jackson Gregory

Copyright by Charles Scribner's Sons

Synopsis

CHAPTER I.—Bud Lee, horse foreman of the Blue Lake ranch, convinced by Trevors, manager, is de-liberately wrecking the property owned by Judith Sanford, a young woman, her cousin, Pollock Hampton and Timothy Gray, decides to throw up his job. Judith arrives and announces she has bought Gray's share in the ranch and will run it. She discharges Trevors.

CHAPTER II.—The men on the ranch dislike taking orders from a girl, but by subduing a vicious horse and proving her thorough knowledge of ranch life, Judith wins the best of them over. Lee decides to stay.

"Maybe so," he admitted without heat. "I'll take off my hat to Luke Sanford for a man. And I'll take off my hat to you, if you want to know. But, training or no training, this is no job for a lady, and shooting up Trevors and riding the Prince isn't going to make it so."

"What you're looking for," sniffed Judith contemptuously, "is a female being extinct this one hundred years! You'd have every girl wear tails to her gowns, and duck and dodge behind fans and faint every time she jabbed her thumb with a pin!"

"I can't see that a woman's place is riding bucking broncos and ramping around."

"A woman's place!" she scoffed. "Her place where a blunder-headed man puts her! How do you know where her place is? How would you like to be told just what your place is? To be jammed, for instance, into a little bungalow in a city; to be squeezed into a dress-suit and told: 'Stay here and look sweet'; to be commanded not to get up a natural sweat, nor to kick over the traces with which some woman had hitched you to the cart of convention. How'd you like it, Bud Lee?"

Bud Lee grinned and a new look crept into his eyes. "Being Bud Lee," he answered frankly, "I wouldn't stand it for one tick of the clock. I'd say there's two kinds of men, too. There's my kind; there's the Dave Burrill Lee kind. You see, he's a sort of relation of mine, is Dave Burrill Lee, and I'm not exactly proud of him. He's the kind that wears dress-suits and sticks in a bungalow. He's proud of his name Burrill and Lee, both, because big men down south were 'em before he did, and they were relations. He's swelled up over the way he can dance and ride after a fox, and over the coin he's got in the bank. Then there's Bud Lee who ducks out of that sort of a scrap-heap and beats it for the open."

"I get you!" broke in Judith, her eyes very bright. "And you men here, my men, want me to be the sort of woman that your precious cousin, Dave Burrill, is a man? Is that it? Where's your logic this morning?"

"Meaning horse sense?" he smiled. "It's in these few little words: 'What's right for a man may be dead wrong for a woman.'"

"Oh, scat!" she cried impatiently. "What am I wasting time with you for?" She swung back to her table. "What was Trevors' latest excuse for selling at a sacrifice?" she asked.

"Told me he just had a wire last night from young Hampton, asking for three thousand dollars," he explained in a similar tone, though his eyes were twinkling at her.

"Pollock Hampton has his nerve!" she snapped. She took up the telephone instrument at her elbow and

LEAGUE GETS READY TO COMBAT MALARIA

GENEVA. — Malignant malaria, which has made especially serious ravages in Russia, is now being given a thorough investigation by a special League of Nations commission which is touring the affected regions of Europe. An Italian expert, Doctor Luttraria, is chairman of the commission, which includes physicians from Germany, France, Spain, Great Britain, Holland, Rumania, Jugoslavia and Russia.

Already the experts have spent eighteen days in Jugoslavia. Their itinerary includes Poland and finally Russia. In both Russia and the Ukraine the commission will study the principal malaria regions and, coming back to Moscow, will be shown the workings of the central health organization and particularly the anti-malarial work of the Russian Health service. It will also take part in a Moscow conference on malaria, arranged by the Soviet authorities.

The next meeting of the council of the League will have before it an exhaustive report on the whole question of malaria in southern and eastern Europe, and the health organization of the League will be enabled to arrange new international methods of combat.

APIA, Samoa. — Extensive German plantations and uncultivated lands, included in the "Samoa demanding the Western Union at Rocky Bend. "Judith Sanford speaking," she said crisply. "Repeat the message of last night for the general manager, Blue Lake ranch."

In a moment she had it. "So Trevors wasn't lying about that part of it," she said reluctantly. "And to the Western Union agent. 'Take this message:'"

"Pollock Hampton, Hotel Glenn, San Francisco:

"Impossible send money now or for some time. Have fired Trevors. Running outfit myself. Need every cent we can raise to pay interest on loans, men's salaries and keep going. This is final."

"Judith Sanford, General Manager."

"That may start his gray matter working," she ended as she clicked up the receiver. "Now, Lee, will you stick with me ten days or so and give me time to get a man in your place?"

"Yes, I'll do that, Miss Sanford."

"You will help me in every way you can while you are with me?"

"When I work for a man—or a woman," he added gravely, "I don't hold back anything."

"All right. Then start in right now and tell me about the gang Trevors has taken on. Are they all crooks? That little gray, quick-spoken man with the snelly pipe—he's straight, isn't he?"

"That would be old Carson? Yes; he's a good man. You won't find a better."

"Is he going to quit, too? Just because I've come? Has he any love for Bayne Trevors?"

"In a flash she was on her feet and had gone to the door. 'Carson!' she called loudly. 'Come here, will you?'"

There was a little silence, a low sound of laughter, then Carson's sharp voice answered: "I'm coming!"

Judith went back to her chair. She did not speak until Carson's wiry form slipped through the doorway. Then with the old cattleman's shrewd, hard eyes upon her she turned from a clip full of papers she had been looking through and spoke to him quietly:

"You used to work for the Granite Canyon crowd, didn't you, Carson?"

"Yes'm," he answered.

"Cattle foreman there for several years?"

"Yes'm."

"Helped clean out the Roaring Creek gang, didn't you, Carson?"

Carson shifted a bit, colored under her fixed eyes, and finally admitted: "Yes'm."

"Haven't had a real first-class fight for quite a bit, have you, Carson? Not since that gash on your jaw healed. Not since you and Scotty Webb mixed with the Roaring Creekers?"

Carson rubbed his jaw, flashed a quick look at Bud Lee as though for moral support, looked still further embarrassed, and finally choked over his brief: "No'm."

Judith sat smiling brightly up at his hard features. "I've heard dad talk about that," she said thoughtfully. "I guess I've got at least one real man on the ranch, Carson. Oh, don't dodge like that! I'm not going to put my arms around you and kiss you on the top of your head. But I do love a man that loves a fair fight. . . . Lee, here, has given me his promise to stick on the job for ten days or so, to give me time to get some one else to look after my horses."

"Yes'm," said Carson, fingering his pipe and looking down.

For a few moments the girl sat still, now and then flashing a quick, keen look from one to the other of her two foremen. Then, abruptly, her eyes on Carson, she snapped: "You've found out, more or less recently, haven't you, that Bayne Trevors is a crook? You've perhaps even guessed that he's been taking money from me with one hand and from the Western Lumber with the other?"

"Yes'm," said Carson, "I doped it up like that."

"Why," cried the girl, "he's fired all of the old men and heaven knows how many of his sort he's put in their places! Help me clean 'em out, Carson! Where will we begin? I've chucked Trevors and Ward Hannon. Who goes next, Carson?"

"Benny the cook," said Carson gently. "An' I'd be obliged, ma'am, if you'd let me go boot him off'n the ranch."

"That's talking," she said enthusiastically. "You can attend to him. Any one else?"

Carson shook his head. "I got my suspicions," he said. "But that's all I'm dead sure on."

"The others can wait then. Now, I'm taking a gamble on you and Lee. You have all kinds of chances to double-cross me. But I've got to tell you something: Trevors is trying to sell me out to the Western Lumber people. He is one of their crowd and has been since they bought him up six months ago. The ranch, outside the stock we've got running on it, is worth a clean million dollars if it is worth a nickel. Well, the Western Lumber company has offered us exactly two hundred and fifty thousand! One-quarter of what it's worth! They know we're mortgaged; they know the interest we have to pay is heavy; they know that Pollock Hampton, for one, is a spender who knows nothing about big business; they think that I, because I'm a girl, am a fool. It looks to them like a melon easy to cut and ripe for the slicing."

She paused a moment, frowning thoughtfully at the floor. Then suddenly she lifted her eyes to Carson's, saying crisply: "Trevors took time at the end to tell me something. That something was that he was going to make me sell. He even threatened, if I hadn't come to my senses before the ranch was dry in the summer, to burn me out!"

crown estates" by New Zealand under the mandatory power granted over Western Samoa at the close of the world war have been submit-

"The durned polecat!" whispered the cattle foreman.

"Now then," cried Judith, "you've got your first job cut out for you. Let Bayne Trevors or one of his gang set foot on Blue Lake land, and I'll tell you what I think of you, Carson! Or is the job going to be too big for you?"

Carson smiled deprecatingly. "I'd like to see 'em try it," he said in that soft, whispering voice which upon occasions was characteristic of him. "I sure would, Miss Judy!"

"That's all this morning, Carson," she said quietly. "On your way don't forget to look in on your friend, Benny."

Carson went hastily down the knoll, his eyes bright. Judith laughed softly.

"I've got his number. Bud Lee! All that's needed to keep that old mountain-lion on the job is to show him a real fight ahead! And by golly, Mr. Man, there's going to be scrap enough from the very jump to make Carson forget whether he's working for a woman or John W. Satan, Esquire!"

CHAPTER III

Bigness of the Venture

"And now," said Judith Sanford to the stillness about her—she was alone in the big ranch-house—"not being constructed of iron, I'm going to take a snooze."

Vivid blossom that she was upon the tough, hardy stalk of her pioneer ancestry, creature of ardent flame and passion which her blood and her life in the open had made her, she was not devoid of the understanding of the limit of physical endurance. Last night, through the late moonlight and later starlight, through the thick darkness which lay across the mountain trails before the coming of day, on into the dawn, she had ridden forty miles from the railroad at Rocky Bend. Certain of treachery on the part of Bayne Trevors, she had arrived only to find him plotting another blow at her interests. She had ridden a mad brute of a horse whose rebellious struggle against her authority had taxed her to the last ounce of her strength. She had shot a man in the right shoulder and the left forearm. . . . And now, with no one to see her, she was pale and shaking a little, suddenly faint from the heavy beating of her own heart. She had had virtually no sleep last night. She was glad of it. For now she would sleep, sleep.

"I am not to be called, no matter what happens," she said to Jose, who came trotting to the tinkle of her bell.

Slipping out of her clothes, she drew the sheet up to her throat—and tossed for a wretched hour before sleep came to her. A restless sleep, filled with broken bits of unpleasant dreams.

At two o'clock, swiftly dressing after a leisurely bath, she went out into the courtyard, where she found Jose making a pretense of gardening, whereas in truth for a matter of hours he had done little but watch for her coming.

"Jose," she said, as he swept off his wide hat and made her the bow reserved for la senorita and la senorita alone. "I am going to telephone into town for a woman to do my cooking and housekeeping and be a nuisance around generally. While I do that, will you scare up something for me to eat and then saddle a horse for me?"

She went to the office, arranged over the wire with Mrs. Simpson of Rocky Bend to come out on the following day, and then spent fifteen minutes studying the pay roll taken from the safe, which, fortunately, Trevors had left open. As Jose came in with a big tray she was running through a file of reports made at the month-end, two weeks ago, by certain of the ranch foremen.

"Put it down on the table, Jose. Thank you," and she found time for a smile at her devoted servant. "Now have a horse ready, will you?" And without waiting for Jose's answer, taking up the telephone, she asked for the office at the Lower End, as the rich valley land of the western portion of the ranch was commonly known.

Briefly making herself known to the owner of the boyish voice which answered, she asked for "Doc" Tripp and was informed that the ranch veterinarian was no longer with the outfit. Judith frowned.

"Where is he?"

"Rocky Bend, I think."

"Hm!" said Judith. "Who has taken his place?"

"Bill Crowdy is sort of acting vet, right now."

"Thanks," she said. Clicking off, she put in a call for "Doc" Tripp in Rocky Bend. "Get him for me as quickly as you can, will you, please?" she asked of the operator in town.

For five minutes she munched at a sandwich and pored over the papers before her. When at last her telephone-bell rang she found that it was Tripp.

"Hello, Doc," she said cordially. "I haven't seen you for so long I almost have forgotten how you comb your hair!" Tripp laughed with her at that; across the miles she could picture him rapping his big hand through the rebellious shock. "Yes, I'm back to stay, and from the looks of it I didn't come away any too soon. What was the trouble with you and Trevors? What was the excuse for canning you?"

"Case of lung-worms," he told her. "Some of the calves, I don't know just how many yet. He insisted on my treating them the old way."

"Slaked lime? Or sulphur fumes?"

ted to public tender for leasing. No distinction of nationality was made, and most of the successful bidders were Germans.

she said quickly. "And you insisted on chloroform?"

"You've hit it!" he exclaimed wonderingly. "How'd you know?"

"I haven't been loafing on the job the last six months," she laughed. "I've been at the school at Davis and hobnobbing with some of the university men at Berkeley. They're doing some great work there. Doc, I'll want to talk to you about it. You're going down there, expenses paid, to brush up with a course or two this year. Now, how soon can you get back here?—Trevors? Oh, Trevors is fired. I'm running the ranch myself. And WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—Plans for erecting nearly a dozen new memorials in the nation's capital, already noted for its statuary, are now under way. Congressional sanction has been given for ten to be unveiled in the near future.

The statue of General San Martin, termed the "George Washington of Argentina," soon to be officially presented by the government of his country to America, has arrived in Washington.

Methodists are making preparations for a memorial to Francis Asbury, one of the country's earliest ministers, which will be unveiled in October. The nuns of the battle fields of the Civil War will have a monument to their memory here, thanks to the efforts of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Ancient Order of Hibernians.

"Heroes that sacrificed their lives, that women and children might be saved, in the tragic catastrophe of the sinking of the steamship Titanic will be honored in a memorial which will overlook the Potomac river. Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, who recently executed the Buffalo Bill monument, will design this monument. A figure with outstretched arms will symbolize the memory of the deed which the Women's Titanic Memorial Association seeks to perpetuate.

The First Division memorial, commemorating men of the American Expeditionary Force of that fighting organization, has already been erected south of the State and War Department building and will be unveiled in October. A memorial to President Buchanan is to be erected in Meridian Hill Park. Serenity, a gift of Charles Deering of Chicago, is among Washington's future pieces of statuary. A Navy and Marine memorial is in process of preparation.

"By the way," she said when the man with the voice which had sounded so boyish in her ears answered again, "who are you?"

"Ed Masters," he told her. "Electrician, you know."

"What are you doing this afternoon?" she demanded sharply—"just hanging around the office? I'll tell you one thing, Ed Masters. If you are one of the loaf-around kind you'd better call for your time tonight. If there's anything for you to do, go do it. Don't wait for Trevors. He's gone. Yes, for good. You can report to me here the first thing in the morning. Now send me Crowdy."

"He's down in the hospital and the hospital phone is out of order."

"And you're an electrician, hanging around for orders! That's your first job. Send the first man you can get your hands on to tell Crowdy I say not to touch one of those calves with the lung-worm. And not to do anything else but get ready to talk with me. I'll be down in half an hour."

FAMOUS PACER IMPROVES WITH PASSING OF YEARS

(By the Associated Press)

CAMBRIDGE CITY, Ind., Aug. 27.—"Single G," 14-year-old veteran of the harness racing circuits, is improving with age, despite the general belief that a horse's best days are past when it reaches its tenth year. This remarkable animal, which eleven years ago made her maiden start of a mile course at Peoria, Illinois and finished third in a race on the same day in which the world's record was shattered by "William" in making his debut, established a record of 2:05. He and all other racing mates of "Single G" in that day have gone, but the great pacer is more active than ever.

"Single G" established a record of 1:58 1-2 in negotiating the mile in her tenth year of racing last season, and today in her eleventh year in harness, she promises to do as well or better, according to followers of the circuit races.

According to racing authorities "Single G" has surpassed the record of all harness race horses of the two minute class or better, and they declare her now to be one of the greatest pacers in harness.

"Little Gyp," mare of no recognized breeding was the dam of "Single G," while "Anderson Wilkes," rated as a good horse in his day and a leading son of "Onward," was her sire. Ed Allen, veteran driver, who has been the trainer of "Single G" is always in the seat when she steps around the circuit. She is the property of W. B. Barefoot of Cambridge City, Indiana.

FRANCIS

The pipe line people have large crews of men at work out at their pump station, digging pits and making forms for the cement work on their oil tanks. They have a large shed erected and have five cars of cement in it. Their pit for a large oil tank is about five feet deep and will have cement walls from the bottom to four feet above the level of the ground and the bottom will be covered with asphalt. This tank when finished will be 150x50x8 feet.

The oil people out on section 19-5-7 are now at work and we have been informed that they will continue until they get the oil or fill their contract of 3500 feet.

Lip Shave is Latest for Girls

OKLAHOMA CITY—The last straw.

With the invasion of barber shops by women, male customers have assumed the proportions of pigmies. Man shrunk into his innermost self and swore. Woman had crossed the deadline into a forbidden land.

But now they have taken unto themselves even the ways of a man. The "ponjola" bob was the starter. Tuesday noon a woman walked into a Broadway barbershop and sat jauntily down in the barber chair and said, "Clip it in the back underneath the bob—I say, could you shave my lip?" Pulling the hairs out hurts too much.

Male occupants of the shop snickered and then cursed under their breath. One man walked out with a disgusted look at the barber and "I'll be in later."

The barber shaved her virgin lip.

The Francis Township Fair will open here promptly at 10 o'clock on the third day of September and we are expecting large exhibits by everybody. We are expecting all the farmers to lay off that day and bring in their exhibits. One does not know whether they will get a premium or not but it is sure that those who do not have anything on exhibit will get no premium.

The school of Francis will open the 8th day of September with eight teachers as follows: Mary Rushing, primer and first grade; Leota Patterson, second grade; Jessie Belle Ellis, third and fourth grades; Velma Jordan, fifth and sixth grades; Mr. Caperton, seventh and eighth grades; Sarah Tatum, principal of the high school; Beulah Jones, teacher of domestic science and art, and T. J. Cunningham, superintendent. The school board has done about $500 worth of repairing on the school building and will in the near future build new walks to the school house. Every body is expecting a large attendance this term.

Bathing Togs Not on Taboo on Tulsa Streets

TULSA—Tulsa will have to struggle along without an anti-bathing-togs ordinance for the time being, according to the attitude taken by most of the members of the city commission, toward the proposed law requiring bathers on the way to pools to wear cloaks.

Although the matter was not brought up at the city commission meeting today, Mayor Newblock explained to a reporter that the city had an ordinance now in effect against indecent exposure and that any additional law would be superfluous. Commissioner Kiskadder stated that the police had orders to enforce the ordinance against indecent exposure. He and the other commissioners were of the opinion that a bathing suit properly worn did not violate the present ordinance.

City Attorney Underwood, who has been investigating the provisions of the proposed ordinance following the complaint of representatives of the W. C. T. GERMANS WOULD GET SPENDING AMERICANS

BERLIN.—American tourists are coming to Germany again in sufficient numbers to arouse the hope that possibly by fall this business will again assume proportions some thing like normal.

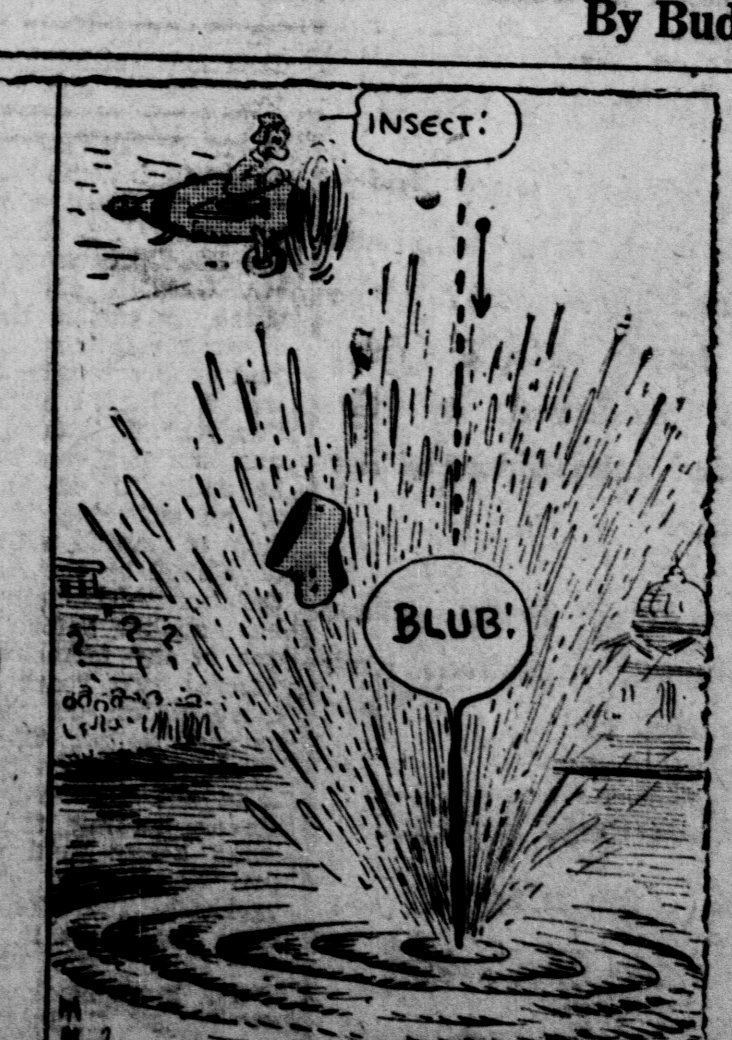

But where the tourists spent weeks or months in Germany a year ago during the inflation period of the paper mark, they now remain a comparatively short time because of the high prices. Since the introduction of the Renten mark last November the cost of living has risen two or three fold what it was when the printing presses had much difficulty in keeping up with the demand for paper currency.

Government officials and representatives of the hotel keepers' association have been working for months upon a plan designed to reduce the cost of travel and living in Germany for tourists, but as yet no definite conclusions have been reached.

Tourist agencies which were operating sight-seeing cars from Strasbourg to Cologne by way of Mayence and through Coblenz, Bonn and other historic points along the Rhine, have abandoned the service because of the high prices for meals and rooms in German hotels, and the refusal of travelers to meet the increased rates.

As part of the school extension work popular school libraries are to be established in the townships and capitals of the Provinces of Panama as centers for community culture.

Farmers' Column

Byron Norvell

On the Tramp Again

Monday, for the first time in nearly two years, I was able to arrange matters so that I could get off on one of my long hikes through the country to see how things are moving along, greet old friends and make new ones.

I took the train to Vanoss and during the short time I spent there was told that the prospect is excellent for an unusually good township fair. Vanoss has always had a good fair and from what I was told I am inclined to think this one will be better than previous ones.

Crop Conditions.

Rain is badly needed, along the entire route I traveled, but it was the general consensus of opinion that both corn and cotton will be considerably better than the crop of last year. I also noticed considerable grain sorghums indicating that there will be a fair supply of roughage for the winter. However, I was informed that the dry weather had cut the hay crop below normal.

Keeping Cotton Growing

I was lucky enough to run into H. B. Williams in Vanoss and he very kindly offered to drive me out to his farm southeast of town and to other places down the road. He has some of the best cotton I have seen and it was not shedding much, either. He had plowed it lately and kept the top of the ground loose, a plan I used to see followed by the best blackland farmers of Texas where the ground was inclined to crack open very badly in dry weather. In this way Mr. Williams had conserved the moisture and kept his cotton in fine shape. W. J. Cooper lived on the place and he also had some fairly good cotton and corn. He was gathering corn when I went to the field. He and his family have been selling cream since February, and while they had not made a fortune, he said the steady flow of small checks had helped a great deal during the time and he expected to keep it up. Some loaded grape vines were on the place and some fruit trees. Mr. Williams is a well informed orchardist and on another farm has about 20 acres in trees of various kinds, but we did not have time to visit this orchard.

An Artesian Well

We next stopped at Carl Solomon's place. Carl was working in town but we noted several things of interest on the place. The Solomon family has the largest apiary I saw on my entire round. The whole hill side was covered with bee hives and generally Mr. Solomon has more honey to sell than almost anyone in the county, but he said they did not do as well as usual this year because the clover blossoms did not seem to have the usual amount of honey in them. He had a good size clover pasture near the house where his hogs and some of his fat cows range. What interested me, however was a most excellent artesian well. A steady stream of cold water, slightly tinged with sulphur, flows from the well which I was told was only about 135 feet in depth. A well like that is something of inestimable value.

Down the Road.

We next dropped in on J. B. Owens and family. Mr. Owens has a nice little place about three miles south of Vanoss and in addition to his regular crops he raised some excellent fruit, berries and melons. In a corner of the yard there was the largest Himalaya berry bush I had ever seen. This berry spreads all over the place and there is no limit to what it will bear. Some watermelons were rolled out on the porch and we had a feast.

Across the road I noted a field of peanuts which looked well. These belonged to Mr. McNair but he was not a home so I never stopped there.

Next I dropped in at V. E. Norvell's where I had a chat with Mrs. Norvell and her father J. S. Jones. Mr. Jones is one of the old timers of this county, having come here from Texas some 32 years ago. For several years he was the Vanoss correspondent to the News and had a lot of fun out of some of his neighbors about the "Don't Worry and Never Sweat Club" of which he admitted he was also a charter member. Considerable cotton was open on this place, about two bales, they said, and they have probably begun picking it by this time. They may possibly get the first bale to Vanoss as none had been received there at the time of my visit.

E. A. Cannady was hauling wood and making ready for winter before crop gathering time began. He had about 10 acres of Spanish peanuts which were looking fine. If they get a rain he will get a good yield from the patch. He said his corn and cotton were quite a bit better than last year.

J. E. Dunn also thought his corn and cotton would show better than last year.

E. L. Johnson and son Ransy had been picking cotton all day, they told me in course of a chat I had with them. They are new comers, having moved here from near Tupelo.

G. W. Sales had also been picking cotton for a neighbor who was trying to get the first bale to Roff.

Some Real Cotton
I spent the night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Griffith, two miles west of Lightning Ridge school house. The place really lived up to its name that afternoon and night, for lightning could be seen in three directions although we were disappointed in our hope of a rain.

Tuesday morning I took a look at Mr. Griffith's crop and was given a striking demonstration of the value of sweet clover in building up the soil, a fact that J. B. Hill has been preaching for a long time. Mr. Griffith and his sons had a patch in cotton that had been in clover for four or five years. It was just ordinary upland, but the cotton was the best I have seen anywhere this year. If it does not make three-quarters of a bale to the acre I shall be badly fooled. It did not appear to be suffering in the least. This field is planted with the new variety developed by the A. and M. college, Oklahoma Triumph 44, of which I have spoken before and tried out on one of my farms with considerable success two years ago. There was more cotton on the place but not as good as this. The corn was fairly good and Mr. Griffith had some alfalfa and a considerable acreage in clover making the soil ready for some heavy field crops a year or two hence. The corn was of two varieties, the Yellow Dent grown from seed sent in from the north, and Silvermine. The Griffiths also had a large flock of white turkeys, the largest flock, in fact, I saw on my entire round. One of the boys, Herbert, is the bee man of the family and had several colonies in the yard.

J. P. Ables and J. F. Bissel were cutting some of their grain sorghums. They tried higeras this year for the first time. Mr. Ables said he planted some in April and more in May. The first planting did not do much but the second was making a fair crop. He also had a fair sized crop of cane for roughness for his stock.

At the Community Center

The community center is, of course, at the school house and church. The school house is a comfortable building of concrete blocks. The teachers in charge at present are Lloyd and Miss Craig Parker of Center. A revival meeting was in progress conducted by Rev. C. W. Stringer, pastor of the Baptist church at Lightning Ridge. It was being well attended and good results were being obtained.

F. R. Ray keeps a store near the school house. He carries a very substantial line of goods and his place is a great convenience to the people of the community.

The Lightning Ridge people are always anxious to do what they can for the betterment of their community and the boys and girls have several good clubs here. A community fair is being planned for September 4.

Owing to bad road conditions, Lightning Ridge has been greatly handicapped in getting to Ada, but from the line of Commissioner Lase-man's district three miles north of Roff the road has been worked and bridges and culverts put in as far as the Wilson community eight miles southwest of Ada. The work is still going on and will be continued until the road is in good shape all the way to Ada. This road will be valuable for all parties concerned.

A Race for First Bale

I was told a good story about a race to Roff between the first two bales of cotton Monday. They said Walter Roberts and Henry Coffey got out their first bales during the day. Roberts started first with a mule team. However, Coffey used a truck to transport his and overtook Roberts in the edge of Roff. Roberts whipped up and made for the gin scales while Coffey drove up town. I don't know who was declared the winner.

On Down the Road

My first stop after leaving the store was at J. A. Shook's. He was topping his cane and getting in a supply of feed. He had some of the best headed kafir I have ever seen and also has some higeras. This is his first experiment with the latter and he planted it early to which fact he attributes its failure to measure up to his expectations. Mrs. Shook said the children were active workers in some of the clubs.

Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Sissel live on top of a hill that commands a wide view to the south and east. In fact, Pontotoc county has some fine scenery and it is from a spot of this kind that one can view it to best advantage. Crops on this place looked fairly well.

Rounding into the Wilson community I stopped a few minutes at C. A. Stewart's. He said his crops are somewhat better than they were last year. W. N. Hughey, a little farther down the road, said the same thing.

W. H. Hilliard conducts a store on the road but had been working the road all morning. Besides his store he has a very fair crop. He has given some attention to trucking this year and said he had already sold $50 worth of tomatoes from a patch of three-quarters of an acre and has another 100 bushels in sight. He said he has realized a fair price for this crop.

J. F. Betherum was not at home but I noticed a broom factory in his yard and was told that he raises his own broom straw. Some 15 or 20 colonies of bees were in the yard.

Dave Reynolds is one of the genuine old timers of this section, having lived in what is now Pontotoc county for 35 years. He has a comfortable home and the yard is kept very pretty with roses and other flowers. Mr. Reynolds for several years brought the first bale of cotton to Ada and his best record was August 7, some years ago. So far as I remember, this is the earliest date here for the first bale.

J. C. and Vance Price have the best looking corn I saw on this round.

After passing the Price place I speeded up a few notches and made no more stops until I reached Eldo Plumlee's, two miles southwest of Latta school house. Eldo moved from Ada to the farm about four years ago. He said he has some good corn this year and beat most of his neighbors last year. He ascribes this largely his method of culture and to the variety he plans, Texas Sure Crop, which is cross of Mexican June corn with some other variety, the name of which he had forgotten. Mrs. Plumlee has canned 250 quarts of fruits, corn and other products this season and plans to put up 150 more quarts.

Shortly after leaving the Plumlee home, Supt. Woods of Latta school picked me up and brought me home a little frayed about the edges but still very much in the ring.

General Observations
I did not see very many hogs on this round and several told me that all the hogs they tried to raise was just enough for meat. The low price of hogs and scarcity of grain had driven most of them out of the hog business.

I saw quite a few small bunches of turkeys but can't say how the number compares with last year.

A good rain would help cotton considerably by making the bolls fully mature, but I doubt if it would make much more than is already on the stalk. However, it would help some parts of the county stock water is scarce, but good water and plenty of it is one of the strong points of Lightning Ridge.

Cotton is opening rapidly and another week should see it begin to move freely, especially if the weather cools a little so that picking will not be such hot work.

Very few boll weevils or punctured squares have been seen this season and no damage has been Arrangements are now practically complete for the Oklahoma delegation of Legionnaires attending the Sixth Annual National Convention of The American Legion at St. Paul September 15 to 19. Legion officials are now confident that between 500 and 600 war comrades from Oklahoma will meet their buddies at the Twin City meeting.

With the exception of the Kansas City meeting, Legionnaires have pointed out; there has never been more interest displayed by the Oklahoma buddies toward a national convention. With the low railway fare of approximately $30 for the round trip many comrades are taking advantage of the rates to journey to the Minneapolis assembly, not only to enjoy the convention, but to serve as a vacation in attractive northwest territory, where their hosts point out, the weather is cool, lakes are numerous and fish are biting daily.

St. Paul is arranging to care for between 65,000 and 75,000 Legion buddies during the assembly. While the headquarters of the Oklahoma delegation will be at the Hotel Marlborough, the majority of Legionnaires from Oklahoma will use the Pullman cars at "Pullman City" only five blocks from convention hall, during their entire stay at the convention.

Oklahoma buddies have arranged to use the various railways over the state to assemble at Kansas City where a special train will be run over the Rock Island railway to take the "Sooner" delegates to the Twin Cities.

A number of Legion comrades, however, have made arrangements to drive through to the convention city. Legion posts on the route to St. Paul have made special arrangements to care for the "Highway Delegates" and a warm welcome is promised along the entire route.

St. Paul and Minneapolis have united to furnish one of the largest entertainment programs ever attempted at a national convention, national officers state.

09cspisCh, aeribit, shrd uld wd Mammoth fireworks displays, aerial battles, headliner boxing matches, pavement dances, continuous band concerts, vaudeville, receptions, state dinners, automobile trips and tours to neighboring points of interest are promised among the events to the war buddies and their families.

In addition to the Convention City entertainment, all Legion posts of Minnesota have worked out plans to form a guard of welcome for all buddies entering the state. Day and night trains and automobile caravans will be met by Minnesota Legionnaires as the war buddies cross the Minnesota line. Special entertainment programs, highway information, a bite to eat, a place to camp, help along the way, and the Minnesota glad hand will be extended to the buddies. It will be impossible, Minnesota buddies declare, for any Legionnaire to enter the state, whether on special trains, automobile caravans or on foot, without receiving the hospitality of some posts stationed along his way.

Members of the Legion Auxiliary and all Legionnaires, as well, are as a unit in supporting the candidacy of Mrs. Jennie Stewart, Bartlesville, for President of the American Legion Auxiliary.

Mrs. Stewart, who at present is first national vice president of the auxiliary, is well known not only throughout Oklahoma but in all legion centers as well, as one of

GERMAN MINISTER USES PLANE IN MAKING CAMPAIGN SPEECHES

(By the Associated Press)

BERLIN—Foreign Minister Stresemann holds the record among European statesmen for the number of airplane flights made during the last few months in connection with the performance of his duties. He has been making frequent speeches in the provinces this summer, chiefly explaining Germany's stand on the question of reparations, and he always travels by air.

Travel by train is slow, and furthermore Mr. Stresemann says he has found that flying has a very stimulating effect. He sometimes delivers two or three addresses a day in different towns, making the jump from one locality to another in an airplane assigned him by the government aviation authorities. He is accompanied by one of the best aviators in the German service.

INTERNATIONAL LAW PROBLEM TO BE DISCUSSED IN SWEDEN

STOCKHOLM—Territorial limits at sea, the safeguarding of the right of minorities in the League of Nations, aviation laws and international commercial arbitration are some of the important international questions which will be discussed by about 200 of the world's most prominent lawyers at the thirty-third congress of the International Law Association in Stockholm, Sept. 8-13.

England will send about 100 delegates to Stockholm, the American section of the International Law Association will be represented by at least a dozen delegates, and the proceedings promise to be of great significance.
